

Laurie Fitch

Laurie Fitch is a Partner in the Strategic Advisory Group at PJT Partners, in London.

With a background spanning asset management and investment banking, Laurie has extensive experience in capital markets. Prior to joining PJT Partners, Ms. Fitch spent four years in the Global Power and Global Industrials groups at Morgan Stanley, most recently as Head of the Global Industrials Group in Europe. Before that, Ms. Fitch spent the majority of her career as an Analyst and Portfolio Manager at Artisan Partners and TIAA-CREF, where she was responsible for investments in the global industrials, utility and infrastructure sectors.

Laurie is a Non-Executive Director and member of the Remuneration Committee of Enquest PLC, based in the UK. Laurie is a coopted member of both the Audit and Finance & Operations subcommittees of the Tate Board of Trustees, and chairs the Advisory Board of Georgetown University's Center for Contemporary Arab Studies. She has a B.A. in Arabic and an M.A. from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service.