1.2. Any derogation or alteration to these General Conditions shall be set out in a specific contractual document or in Particular Conditions that complement these General Conditions, which shall in any case be agreed to in writing and signed by the parties' legal representatives; should they exist, the specific contractual document or the Particular Conditions, as the case may be, shall prevail over these General Conditions.

1.3. If the Client Company and the Supplier have entered into a frame agreement, and provided such frame agreement complies with the formal requirements set out in the previous number, the provisions contained therein shall prevail over these General Conditions regarding the transactions encompassed by its scope.

1.4. The documents mentioned in 1.2 and 1.3, together with the provisions of these General Conditions which are not superseded as a result of the abovementioned rules of prevalence, shall constitute the Contractual Documents which shall regulate the contractual relationship between the Client Company and the Supplier (Contract).

1.5. Any conditions or specifications inserted by the Supplier in any kind of documentation, including in its proposal or in general conditions used by the Supplier in the supply of its goods or in the provision of its services, which contradict the Contractual Documents shall be ineffective towards the Client Company.

2.2 The acceptance of a Purchase Request by the Supplier implies that it acknowledges and agrees without reserve to its contents, as well as to the contents of the remaining Contractual Documents that may be applicable; unless it results otherwise from the Contractual Documents, the date of acceptance of the Purchase Request shall be the date of the Contract.

2.3 The acceptance of a Purchase Request shall be confirmed in writing to the Client Company within the period mentioned in the Purchase Request or, in case such period is not referred to, within five working days starting from its reception.

2.4. The beginning of the supply of goods or services without a formal acceptance of the Purchase Request in the applicable period will be understood as an acceptance of the respective content and of the applicable Contractual Documents.

6.4 Any public disclosure regarding the Contract must be previously approved in writing by the Client Company.

6.5 The Supplier shall destroy all documents, records and files that contain confidential information, whether original or copy, in whatever form, as soon as the reason for their provision by the Client Company ceases, and, in any case, after termination of the Contract.

11.4 The application of liquidated damages for delays shall be made without prejudice of the Supplier obligation to comply with the supply obligations, which shall remain intact.

11.5 Clauses 22.2. and 22.3 shall apply to liquidated damages for delays.

11.6. The acceptance of goods and/or services delivered after the agreed delivery or completion date shall not imply in any way the Client Company's waiver of its abovementioned rights.

12.2 The Supplier shall carry out all tests, trials and commissioning actions for which it may be responsible, with the assistance and under supervision of the Client Company.

12.3. 12.4 Alternatively, the Client Company may choose to accept the supplied goods and services; in such case, a document confirming the reception shall be drawn, indicating all detected non-conformities and establishing the deadlines for their correction; the Supplier shall be obliged to eliminate such non-conformities in accordance with the agreed terms.

15.3. Non-compliance with any applicable provisions, inaccuracy of the invoiced amounts or quantities or non-conformity of the supplied goods or services shall give cause for the return of the invoices; in case the invoices are returned, the term for payment shall only start upon reception of duly corrected new invoices.

15.4. Invoices shall be issued in the contractual currency, which unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties shall be the currency with legal tender status in the place in which the Client Company's registered office is located.

15.5. The Client Company shall have the right to elect to use an electronic invoicing system, at any time, the Supplier being obliged, in such case, to comply with all legal provisions applicable thereto.

17. SUB-CONTRACTING AND CONTRACT ASSIGNMENT

17.1 The Supplier cannot subcontract the whole or part of the supply, unless it obtains the Client Company's previous written consent.

17.2 In case of total or partial subcontracting the Supplier shall remain the sole responsible for the supply towards the Client Company.

17.3 The Supplier cannot assign the whole or part of its contractual position, or any rights resulting from the Contract, without the previous written consent by the Client Company.

18.1 If any unpredictable or, if predictable, unavoidable objective circumstances outside of the parties' control prevent the fulfilment of their respective obligations, none of the parties shall be liable for non-compliance with such obligations, in accordance with applicable law.

18.2 The Supplier shall inform the Client Company in writing as soon as possible and in any case in less than two days after having knowledge of the same, the causes, starting date and predictable end of any force majeure situation.

20. LIABILITY

20.1 Each of the parties undertakes to promptly fulfil the obligations arising from the Contract, and shall be liable for any damages arising directly from a failure to do so.

20.2 The Supplier shall be the sole responsible for the supply of goods and provision of services, and shall therefore be responsible for the tasks carried out by its personnel while executing the supply, as well as for the activities of its subcontractors.

20.3 The Supplier shall be liable for any expenses, costs or compensation arising from damages caused to the Client Company or to third parties as consequence of defects of the goods and services supplied to the Client Company, even if they were not detected in the inspections and audits conducted by the latter.

20.4 The Supplier shall assume all non-contractual liability, including personal injury and property damage to which it has given cause, directly or through its personnel or subcontractors, to the Client Company, its personnel and/or any third parties.

21.3. In case of termination, in whole or in part, the Client Company shall pay the Supplier the part of the price corresponding to the goods and services accepted to date and not paid, and the Supplier shall reimburse the Client Company of any exceeding amounts that it may have received, as the case may be, without prejudice to any penalties or compensations that may be due as a result of breach of contract.

22. LIQUIDATED DAMAGES

22.1. The Supplier's failure to comply with its contractual obligations, other than the agreed milestones or delivery/completion dates, shall entitle the Client Company to demand from the Supplier as liquidated damages an amount of one per cent of the affected goods and services, for each contractual breach, unless otherwise agreed in the Contractual Documents.

22.2. The liquidated damages applied in accordance with the previous number or under other provisions of the Contract shall be considered liquidated and claimable credits, and the Client Company shall be entitled to compensate such credits with any debts it may have towards the Supplier, as well as to deduce their value to the extended guarantees.

22.3. The payment of liquidated damages shall not exclude the Client Company's right to demand an indemnification for exceeding losses nor its right to terminate the Contract.

25. GENERAL PROVISIONS

25.1. The invalidity of any dispositions in the Contract does not entail the invalidity of the remaining provisions.

25.2. The Contract does not imply the existence of any joint and several relationship between the Supplier and the Client Company and each one of them shall remain responsible for the obligations resulting from their respective activities, whatever their nature; the parties declare that no relationship of a corporate, labour, tax or social security nature is created between them.

25.3. The tolerance by any party of regarding any breach of the contractual provisions shall not constitute, in any case, a novation or a waiver to any right.

26. MANDATORY PROVISIONS

Whenever a contractual provision is in contradiction with an applicable mandatory legal provision the parties shall replace the affected provision with another in conformity with the law which allows for the achievement of an economic result as close as possible to that which would have resulted from the application of the replaced provision.
